Description

As the European market leader for outdoor services, we design outdoor-oriented experiences tailored to your needs by combining people, materials and methods in the best possible way. We can fulfil almost any wish in terms of content, time or method: Whether for five or 500 participants, whether summer or winter – your need decides.

In all of this, the safety of the participants comes first, and the team spirit stays focused. All programs are designed in a way that enables everyone to participate and to experience your corporate values and messages in a sustainable way. Because we work in accordance with experience-based learning in nature - according to the latest findings, this is the most effective method to initiate sustainable changes in attitude and behavior.

The results are events which not only entertain the participants, but sustainably inspire and connect and really help people and companies.
